Friday March 8th:

Today I arrived at the Grand Forks Public. What a Place! I got there just in time to be part of the Information Services staff meeting, where I got to help with planning the April events and programming, they even gave me my own official name badge! Which I thought was pretty awesome, until they told me I had to work the desk?!?!)

...But it wasn't all work!

I took a tour of the main floor, they have a HUGE aquarium with a super cool scuba diver. He was actually 3D printed by the IT Team with one of the library's 3D printers! Then I toured the Native Voices exhibit and learned so many things about Native Peoples and the Soaring Eagle Prairie that is on UND's campus. I spent some time in the Grand Forks room, a quiet space full of all kinds of history on Grand Forks and the surrounding area. I met a new friend in the teen area, he was short and seemed to not want to be out and about, his name was Lucky. Finally we headed up the employee lounge for cake to celebrate my adventures!

Finally, I went up to the Children's area where there was so much to see and do! I played on the pirate ship and read a book in one of the egg chairs. I even helped out at the desk for a little bit because Terri (the Assistant Children's Librarian) just retired! I ended my day looking out the big fish bowl windows, you can see the whole library from there! Thank you Grand Forks Public for letting me spend time in your library!! On to the next!
