Local Information and Local Practice

Local Practice means a library has rules and procedures that only apply to that library.

Examples of local practice: Where your library shelves certain materials like biographies or North Dakota items.

Examples of local information: Call number, donation note, missing parts, condition of the item, where the item was purchased.

Do not add local information to bibliographic records. Adding notes that apply to all libraries is okay, like a note in the 521 tag indicating the target audience.

The best place to add local information is the item record.
